

How to log in or register

Click here to log in or register

Click on the button log in to either log in or to register, if you don't have an account yet.

This screenshot shows the same website home page as above, but with a login/register form overlaid on the right side of the navigation bar. The form contains two input fields: 'Username:' and 'Password:'. Below these fields are three buttons: 'Log in', 'Register', and 'I forgot my password'. A red rounded rectangle highlights the 'Log in' and 'Register' buttons. A red arrow points from the 'Log in' button to the 'Enter your username and password' text. Another red arrow points from the 'Register' button to the 'Click here if you are not registered yet' text. The rest of the page content, including the 'Welcome' message and links, remains the same as in the previous screenshot.
